SWARM HAVE TRAILED 42 SECONDS OF PLAYOFFS

This season's NBA G League Champion will be crowned in a fitting fashion as Stockton and Greensboro stood atop their respective Conference standings for much of the regular season.

Playoff play also showcased both sides' resilience, albeit, in different ways.

The Swarm have trailed for only 42 seconds during the NBA G League Playoffs, having led wire-to-wire versus the Maine Celtics, traded three lead changes in a two-minute stint versus the Go-Go and won wire-to-wire against the Magic.

Greensboro Swarm Time Trailing (Q1 vs. Capital City):

5:52 - 5:34 - (18 seconds)
5:16 - 5:07 - (9 seconds)
4:34 - 4:19 Q1 (15 seconds)

On the flipside, the Kings hunt for their second-straight crown after trailing by no greater than 11 in the Playoffs (11 points @ South Bay). It's first-round opponent, Iowa, only led by two at its largest, and the Kings led wire-to-wire leading as large as 29 against the Rip City Remix.

SWARM LEADS LEAGUE IN UNIQUE STARTING LINEUPS

Continuity has been key for the Greensboro Swarm in 2025-26, and with consistency in style between the Charlotte Hornets and Swarm, constant movement has actually been an advantage.

This season, the Swarm lead the NBA G League in unique starting lineups (37), including unique starting lineups every game of the NBA G League Playoffs.

The Swarm have battled multiple roster and injury changes this season, including the departure of two-way guard KJ Simpson (NBA waivers), Keyontae Johnson (buyout; CBA) and the loss of PJ Hall, who suffered a right ankle fracture in the first round of the NBA G League Playoffs.

Despite this, the Swarm has rallied around NBA assignments Liam McNeeley and Tidjane Salaun while leaning into its core set of returners Jaylen Sims, Terrell Brown Jr. and Marcus Garrett.

SWARM POSTED SECOND-HIGHEST PPG IN G LEAGUE HISTORY

The Greensboro Swarm rewrote its record book in 2025-26, record all five of the team's highest scoring games.

With that, the Swarm posted the second-highest PPG in a season in NBA G League history, trailing only the 2014-15 Reno Bighorns, the then affiliate of the Sacramento Kings.

Most Team PPG In NBA G League History (Regular Season):

Rank	Year	Team	PPG
1.	2014-15	Reno Bighorns	133.1
2.	2025-26	Greensboro Swarm	126.2
3.	2021-22	Rio Grande Valley Vipers	124.5
4.	2019-20	South Bay Lakers	124.0
5.	2020-21	Raptors 905	123.8

The Bighorns' head coach, David Arseneault Jr. joined from Grinnell College, a school renowned for "The System" which prioritizes quick shots and 3-pointers. Reno went 20-30 that season, allowing 133.2 points per game.

DAQUAN JEFFRIES RETURNS TO N.C.

Stockton guard DaQuan Jeffries is no stranger to North Carolina, having logged 47 appearances (20 starts) for the Charlotte Hornets during the 2024-25 season on a standard contract. He averaged a career-high 6.7 points, 2.9 rebounds, and 1.1 assists for the Hornets.

Jeffries was named to the All-NBA G League First Team on Tuesday with Stockton.

TRAINING CAMP STANDOUTS REPLACE PJ HALL

The Greensboro Swarm lost PJ Hall to a season-ending right ankle fracture in the fourth quarter of the team’s first-round game against the Maine Celtics.

In his place, center Jonas Aidoo made his first two career NBA G League starts in the Eastern Conference Semifinals and Finals. Aidoo opened the showing with six blocks against the Go-Go, tying the franchise’s third-most blocks in a game and marking the first time since Nov. 18, 2023, a Swarm player has hit six blocks. The last player to do so was Nathan Mensah vs. Raptors 905.

Aidoo joined the Swarm via an Exhibit-10 contract signed with the Charlotte Hornets in preseason. However, due to injury, Aidoo was the final member waived from the Swarm’s preseason roster, joining the team once healthy in December.

In his place, Josiah Allick, the NBLNZ (New Zealand) MVP a season ago, earned the final roster spot on the team, developing into a key rotational piece and fan favorite in Greensboro.

Allick, 24, logged two critical tip-ins during the fourth quarter of the Eastern Conference Finals -- stopping the Osceola Magic’s biggest comeback of the game that saw it trim the Swarm’s lead to 115-111.

Outside of his knack for flying for loose balls, Allick has also become a fan favorite for courtside fans, as after every timeout, he will high five each fan on the home side of the bench -- and will also do so with every coach, regardless of score.

GREENSBORO SWARM CHESS CLUB

The Greensboro Swarm’s bond has gone beyond the court as the team routinely finds time to meet for dinner and engage in activities outside of basketball.

In recent weeks, the team has honed its IQ off the court with the Greensboro Swarm Chess Club. While most games are played virtually in the locker room, the extracurricular has helped the team find its competitive edge on and off the court.

As of now, Jaire Grayer leads the pack of Swarm chess players, with Tosan Evbuomwan and Liam McNeeley not too far behind.

“It’s a lot of little things [that set this team apart from previous seasons],” said Terrell Brown Jr. “We spend time together — going out to eat on the road, hanging out, even here in Greensboro. The team sets up meals, we’ll go watch games together, especially during March Madness. And we actually started a little chess tournament — like an online competition in the locker room. Everybody’s playing right now. It’s been fun, but it also keeps us competitive and sharp mentally.

“Right now, Jaire is probably the best chess player in the locker room. Tosan’s getting back into it, and Liam too.”

92-YEAR-OLD SWARM STAFFER HAS NEVER MISSED HOME GAME

Friday marks a monumental moment for the Greensboro Swarm, who had not won an NBA G League Playoff game prior to this season and have now secured their first postseason victory in franchise history.

Throughout the organization’s 10-year existence, 92-year-old Paul Brown has been a constant inside Novant Health Fieldhouse. Serving as the team’s stat runner since the inaugural 2016 season, Brown has worked every home game in franchise history, delivering box scores during stoppages in play.

Due to mobility, Brown now delivers stats exclusively to the home bench, but his presence remains a staple of the Swarm game-day operation — a decade-long symbol of consistency and commitment behind the scenes.

He won PGA Volunteer of the Year in 2019 -- being selected from a pool of 100,000 volunteers across 36 tournaments. He began as a spotter on No. 16 at Forest Oaks before taking over a par-3 assignment, later working holes No. 15 and 16 following the tournament’s move to Sedgefield. Brown now serves as a hole captain on No. 2, continuing a volunteer career defined by consistency and dedication.

A HISTORIC RETURNING CORE

In a league defined by fluctuation and roster volatility, the Greensboro Swarm carried one of the strongest returning cores in the NBA G League this season.

The Swarm retained five players from a season ago, including four of the five most-played players from 2024–25: Jaylen Sims, Keyontae Johnson, Terrell Brown Jr., Marcus Garrett and Isaih Moore, a core that went on to account for 48.5% of total team minutes a season ago.

Greensboro’s charge was led by Jaylen Sims, a fourth-year player with the Greensboro Swarm who set the franchise’s record in scoring a season ago.

Sims has seen the rise of the program, now carrying franchise records in...

- Games Played (187)
- Minutes (5,687)
- Points (2,965)
- All Field Goal Attempt Metrics (FGM, FGA, 3PM, 3PA, FTM, FTA)
- All Rebounds Metrics (REB, OREB, DREB)
- Turnovers and Personal Fouls

Terrell Brown Jr. and Marcus Garrett, third-year returners for the Swarm, rank second and third respectively in all-time minutes played for the team at 3,715 and 3,335 minutes, respectively.

Brown Jr. leads the franchise in assists (724) with Garrett leading in steals (167).

Isaih Moore was traded in November for PJ Hall while Keyontae Johnson has his NBA G League contract bought out by the Shandong Ho-Speed Kiring of the Chinese Basketball Association (CBA).

With constant player, movement, the three routinely have subbed in-and-out of the starting unit, but have had zero drop off.

Brown Jr. became the first player in NBA G League history to record back-to-back triple-doubles off the bench earlier this season, doing so on Dec. 31 and Jan. 3.

NBA ASSIGNMENTS SHINE IN GREENSBORO

With the Charlotte Hornets emerging as one of the hottest teams in the NBA, the team has been able to utilize the NBA G League as a development hub to close the season, yielding mutually beneficial results for the organization.

Former No. 6 overall pick Tidjane Salaun played the bulk of the NBA G League Tip-Off Tournament in Greensboro, playing just four regular-season games for the team. With the second-year forward back from injury, the Swarm have utilized him as the key cog for its hopeful Championship run, and he has delivered.

Liam McNeeley, the No. 29 pick in the 2025 NBA Draft, has also found his footing with the Swarm, playing extended reps on the ball in halfcourt situations while carrying a green light from distance. McNeeley set a career mark in the Eastern Conference Finals in 3-pointers made, having drilled four attempts.

On the two-way contract side, all three of PJ Hall, Tosan Evbuomwan and Antonio Reeves have reaped rewards, with Hall garnering All-NBA G League honors and Evbuomwan yet to log minutes in a Hornets uniform, instead all leading the charge in the Swarm’s postseason run.

PJ HALL NAMED TO ALL-NBA G LEAGUE THIRD TEAM

Charlotte Hornets two-way center PJ Hall earned All-NBA G League Third Team honors, becoming the first Swarm player ever named to an All-NBA G League Team. In 23 regular-season games, Hall averaged 18.9 points (.602 FC%, .239 3PT%, .792 FT%), 11.3 rebounds, 2.3 assists and 1.7 blocks in 29.6 minutes. He was one of two players to average 18.0 points, 11.0 rebounds and place one 3-pointer and block per game, joining Charles Bassey.

Hall is out for the remainder of the season with a right ankle fracture.

COLE TEAL

GENERAL MANAGER
Fifth Season with Swarm
(Third as General Manager)

Teal enters his fifth season with the Greensboro Swarm and his third as General Manager, after previously serving as Manager of Basketball Operations & Player Development and as a Basketball Operations Assistant with the franchise.

Across his first two seasons as General Manager, Teal guided the Swarm to steady improvement, culminating in the franchise's first playoff berth during the 2024–25 season. Greensboro posted a 20–14 regular-season record to finish fourth in the conference and an overall mark of 31–19, tied for the fourth-best record in the NBA G League, including an 11–5 showing during the Showcase Cup. Despite limited availability from Hornets assignees, the Swarm's success was driven largely by affiliate players and G League contract additions.

Building through affiliate players and G League contracts, the 2024–25 Swarm roster featured former NBA G League champions Keyontae Johnson and Caleb McConnell (Oklahoma City Blue, 2023–24), while retaining core contributors Jaylen Sims, Marcus Garrett, M.J. Walker and Terrell Brown Jr. The team also made a notable in-season addition in forward Reggie Perry from the Osceola Magic.

The season matched the largest single-season win improvement in franchise history and represented the second-largest improvement across the league. Individually, Sims became the franchise's all-time leading scorer on Feb. 21, 2025, against the Mexico City Capitanes.

Teal joined the Swarm after serving as a Basketball Operations Associate with the Delaware Blue Coats and the Windy City Bulls. During his time in Delaware, he contributed to the development of Haywood Highsmith, supporting his growth from a local tryout participant into an NBA rotation player. With Windy City, Teal was part of a basketball operations group that helped support player development pathways leading to NBA opportunities, including guard Max Strus. Additional players Teal has worked with during his career who have gone on to NBA roles include Daniel Gafford, Jarred Vanderbilt, Mark Williams and Shake Milton.

Players Teal has worked with have also gone on to success internationally, including Jaron Blossomgame, Milton Doyle, P.J. Dozier and Keenan Evans. Windy City alumnus Adam Mokoka has represented France in FIBA competition, while former Swarm guard Théo Maledon has reestablished himself as one of Europe's top point guards, earning All-EuroLeague Second Team honors with ASVEL before signing with Real Madrid.

A graduate of Williams College, Teal earned a bachelor's degree in psychology and was a four-year member of the men's basketball program, starting on the 2017 NCAA Division III Final Four team. He has also served as support staff for USA Basketball at the Junior National Team, AmeriCup, World Cup Qualifier, and World Cup levels. Teal began his professional career with internships at Fenway Sports Management and the Houston Rockets.

Bakker spent one season (2013-14) as a regional advance scout for the Orlando Magic, and he began his NBA career in 2009-10 as a video coordinator with the Chicago Bulls.
